ADVERTISEMENT.

THE present Catalogue principally owes its publication to the frequent inquiry of many Ladies and Gentlemen, for a Work that might enable them to recall to their memories the names of the numerous species of Plants at present cultivated in the various Botanic Gardens and Nurseries in the vicinity of London:—Perfection cannot be expected in Works of this nature; the continual alterations of Genera and Species, and the daily introduction of new Plants from different parts of the World, rendering it necessary for Catalogues of this kind to be frequently re-printed. The Botanic Reader however may rest assured, that should another Edition of the work be ever called for, such plants shall be inserted as, have, from circumstances unavoidable, been here omitted; and such typographical errors as have here occurred shall there be corrected.

An Appendix is intended to be published, which will contain the Plants not here inserted; and which will be printed as soon as the necessary number of names can be procured from any work, to render it of sufficient Importance.

Lewisham Nursery, 1798.

Those Plants marked with an Asterisk (*) are indigenous, or Natives of England; and those having M affixed to them are Medicinal.
